I refer to the above matter.

First and foremost, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the GLOBAL UNIVERSITY FOR LIFELONG LEARNING (GULL), for introducing the concept of establishing an in-house Corporate School in organizations across the various industries.

I am confident that by establishing their own Corporate Schools, our national industries will benefit from teams of knowledge workers who are culturally competitive. In this context, I am most grateful to GULL Asia Sdn. Bhd.'s for its effort, as the sole representative of GULL in Asia, for introducing this concept. I urge management in all industries to establish their own Corporate School as part of their initiative to upgrade their organizational productivity and competitiveness.

Greetings from The Hon. Susil Premajayantha, Minister of Education, Democratic Socialist Republic of Sri Lanka

I am delighted that the South Asian Academy for Good Governance (SAAGG) initiated by Samadeepa Samaja Kendraya Inc., has affiliated with the Global University for Lifelong Learning (GULL) and that they will work together throughout Sri Lanka. It is a significant step forward as it is very important that opportunities are provided to youths as well as to adults to obtain professional degrees from a university of this kind with international recognition.

We are well aware that there are many people in Sri Lanka who do not have access or opportunity to participate in higher education, even though they meet the requirements to do so. In this context, they will really benefit from this affiliation and I know that it will provide a great service for the entire country.

I therefore want to extend my best wishes for the success of this new initiative inaugurated by South Asian Academy for Good Governance and the Global University for Lifelong Learning.

It is a great pleasure for me to send this message for the 2009/2010 Year Book of South Asia Academy for Good Governance (SAAGG). The institution awards certificates, Diplomas, Degrees, Doctorates and other academic titles for suitable and eminent people based on their performances of excellence, in the fields of social research, education and development activities.

My strong belief is that there should be more systems, mechanism and institutions to honor and appreciate the people who make their contribution to develop our society qualitatively and in an immeasurable manner.

This organization is affiliated to the Global University for Lifelong Learning, USA and the Victoria Global University of India. SAAGG is capable of reaching an important milestone at this juncture in our country's history.

Good governance is a crucial issue today, both nationally and internationally. It is very timely that the SAAGG has given priority to this issue.

I strongly believe that people belonging to various sectors as religious leaders, academics, trade unions activists, business leaders and civil society activists, will all benefit from a program and institution of this nature.

I take this opportunity to extend my best wishes for this great endeavor.

Endorsement and extracts from Convocation address by Hon. Dr Vasudeva Nanayakkara
 Speaking at the South Asian Academy for Good Governance (SAAGG) & Global University for Lifelong Learning (GULL) Award Ceremony, Yowun Nikethanaya, Anuradhapura, 24 May 2011.

'I believe that lifelong learning can make a tremendous contribution to our society. Action learning works beyond the limitations and restrictions of the formal education system. Any person - rich or poor - male or female - young or old, whether Sinhalese, Tamil or Muslim - well educated or not, can begin an action learning pathway to improve their life circumstances via the SAAGG-GULL system and attain an internationally recognized qualification: professional Bachelor, Master or Doctor degree.'

Extracts from Hon. Dr Vasudeva Nanayakkara's Convocation address:
 'The war has greatly affected subsistence level plantation workers and villagers and the weakness in the Sri Lankan agricultural sector of the economy is the principal impediment to progress. The challenge is to engender self-confidence and economic well-being so as to accelerate inclusion and better integration of these and ethnic minority groups. In this context, I believe that lifelong learning can make a tremendous contribution to our society. Action learning works beyond the limitations and restrictions of the formal education system. Any person - rich or poor - male or female - young or old, whether Sinhalese, Tamil or Muslim - well educated or not, can begin an action learning pathway to improve their life circumstances via the SAAGG-GULL system and attain an internationally recognized qualification: professional Bachelor, Master or Doctor degree.'

I am happy to see that the Peoples' Assembly of Sri Lanka and Samadeepa (both community organizations) are actively involved with SAAGG-GULL in promoting lifelong learning, peace, social justice, democracy and good governance throughout Sri Lanka. I am fully aware of the outstanding community development work that Samadeepa has been facilitating for the past 30 years and I give my whole-hearted support to Samadeepa and the wider action learning initiative which they are promoting. I should also like to extend my special thanks to Dr Richard Teare, co-Founder and President of the Global University for Lifelong Learning for travelling from the UK to attend this award ceremony.'
